were in force, yet the tea hongs were in no better condition than before. The resson why I say so is that if an unscrupulous speculator buys and ships off large quantities of tea, and uses the money obtained upon the hypothecation of such tea in some other way, paying nothing to the tea hongs at the agreed time, as mentioned in the Rules for the conduct of the tea trade in Foochow, what guarantee have the sellers for the safety of their money P To which I can only answer, none. They have only the remedy of Mak Luk was charged with snatching a pair recourse to law to stop the tea in transitu, and are in the hands of the Bank which advances the The complainant stated that she was a widow money upon the tea. I dare say the tea hongs living on the first floor of No. 80, Prays East. have no cause of action in this matter, though
